

Interior Health

Occupational Hygiene Advisor Southern Interior of British Columbia

Join our amazing Workplace Health & Safety team in this important role.

About the role:

The Occupational Hygiene Advisor participates as a key member of the Workplace Health and Safety (WH&S) team and provides advice, guidance, and resources in the strategic planning, development, implementation, sustainability, evaluation, and continuous improvement of an integrated, system-based approach for all Occupational Health and Safety (OH&S) programs and practices in Interior Health (IH).

The Advisor:

- Acts as a resource and provides consultation, research, and educational support on occupational hygiene for the WH&S team, Managers, and staff;
- Coordinates the planning, development, implementation, and evaluation of Health Authority-wide occupational hygiene programs; and
- Facilitates organizational compliance with legislated OH&S requirements to protect and improve the quality of work life and healthcare in IH.

A significant priority of the position is to work with key stakeholders and partners to build and sustain a systemic framework that links all aspects of patient, staff, and public safety into a comprehensive cultural vision aligned with the strategic directions of the Health Authority.

Qualifications

- A Master of Science degree in Occupational Hygiene or a Bachelor of Science degree with a postgraduate occupational hygiene specialization.
- Registration or eligibility for registration as a Certified Industrial Hygienist (CIH) or a Registered Occupational Hygienist (ROH).
- Three to five years of recent, related experience working as an occupational hygiene advisor (or similar), healthcare experience is an asset.

Apply Now

Jobs.InteriorHealth.ca

@ InteriorHealthBC.Careers

@ IHJobs

Interior Health Authority